

"Humor is reason gone mad."
- GROUCHO MARX

THE ART OF SILLINESS

An Online Workshop with Carla Sonheim • Session III • Wednesday, 1/5/11

Drawing Exercise #1

PUPPY POWER

Using your NON-DOMINANT hand, draw this puppy face continuously for about five minutes straight. Work fairly slowly. Look at the original drawing MORE OFTEN than at your own rendition. It's okay if your lines are shaky (remember, it's your "wrong" hand), or that your puppy doesn't look like a dog; finish it and move on to the next one. Your dogs can be bigger or smaller than the original, and they can overlap a little. (If you run out of room, just cram another face into some nook or cranny.)

Don't forget to breathe!

EXTRA CREDIT

Switch back to your dominant hand and draw the puppy one last time:

Fleep words are nonsense words spoken in the Land of Fleep. Each session the Squeen adds a few more words to her flist. Finish the words however you like and post online!

g

r

o

p

z

But keep your hand loose!

