

Worksheet #

4.6

"There are three hundred and sixty-four days when you might get un-birthday presents, and only one for birthday presents, you know."

- LEWIS CARROLL

THE ART OF SILLINESS

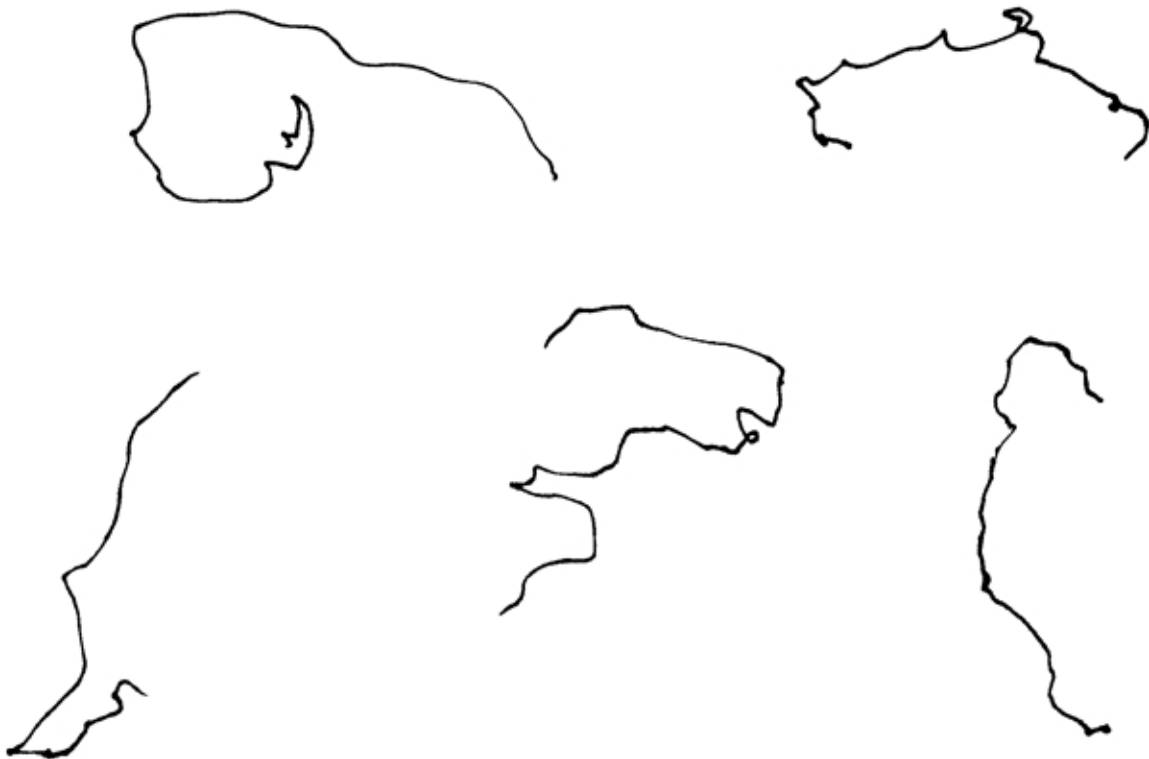

An Online Workshop with Carla Sonheim • Session 4 • Monday, 5/9/11

Drawing Exercise #5

THE SQUEEN'S DAY

Yes, today is The Squeen's birthday! (And you KNOW how much The Squeen loves her birthday, because she gets to indulge her ENTHUSIASM for animals by having Silly 4s invent some imaginary creatures for her collection (she collects creatures like many people collect postage stamps or Tootsie Rolls — obsessively.)

Your present to The Squeen: draw her some creatures from the squiggle lines, below. Don't forget to turn the page around before you decide what to draw! (And you can either draw five separate animals, or combine the lines into one or two animals.)

EXTRA CREDIT

Create a separate drawing or painting inspired by one of the creatures, above (i.e., take it FURTHER than what you have drawn above. Just use the first drawing as a starting point.)