

Photo Silly Advanced

Saturday, March 24, 2012

#8-9

Same But Different

This is a two-part assignment.

Part I

Choose a subject. Could be a person, small object, landscape, just about anything.

Take a quick couple of shots and post the best on the flickr site. Have some lunch or something and come back and study your image. Make a mental list of things that stand out. Give yourself a critique. Decide what you like and dislike.

Part II

Go back and reshoot your subject but this time go with a plan. If your subject is outside, come back when the light is different/better than your first shot. Decide what emotion and mood you want. Dream up a story with main character, setting, plot. Start with an empty frame and build your shot piece by piece based on what you learned from the first shots. Choose your light or create your light to match the idea and feeling you are going for. Use exposure, color, light, camera angle, focus, etc. to make your point.

Pick the best and post.

